Preface

It is with great pleasure that we present the proceedings of the 3rd AIDRAN Biennial Conference ICDR: International Conference on Disability Rights, organized by AIDRAN (Australian-Indonesia Disability Research and Advocacy Network) in collaboration with Thomas More Law School, Australian Catholic University Australia and Faculty of Social Science Universitas Gadjah Mada, Indonesia held on November 21-23, 2023 in Yogyakarta. This conference is supported by INKLUSI. The INKLUSI Program is a joint initiative between the Governments of Indonesia and Australia in advocating for an inclusive society, where everyone can participate equally and fairly in politics, and have access to a decent livelihood in the economic and social spheres, regardless of gender, religion, age, race, physical abilities, or other aspects of diversity. This conference serves as a platform for scholars, practitioners, policymakers, and advocates to engage in critical discussions on the promotion and protection of disability rights in Indonesia and beyond.

In recent years, the global conversation around disability rights has gained increasing momentum, driven by the ongoing advocacy and the imperative to create inclusive societies. The ICDR conference, themed around advancing disability rights, emphasizes not only legal frameworks but also the real-life experiences and challenges faced by people with disabilities in various spheres, from education, employment, and public services to health and social protection.

This collection of papers reflects the rich diversity of issues addressed at the conference. Topics range from family roles in fostering inclusion to the implementation of inclusive policies, from public services accessibility to economic empowerment, and from legal reforms to the representation of people with disabilities in media and society. The insights provided in these papers contribute significantly to the growing body of knowledge on disability rights and inclusion, offering new perspectives and pathways to a more just and equitable society for all.

We extend our deepest gratitude to the keynote speakers, panelists, authors, reviewers, and all participants who have made this conference a success. We also express our appreciation to the organizing committee at AIDRAN and Faculty of Social Science Universitas Gadjah Mada, Indonesia for their dedication in bringing this important event to fruition.

It is our hope that the discussions and knowledge shared in this conference will continue to inspire action, inform policy, and strengthen the commitment to advancing the rights of persons with disabilities in Indonesia and the global community.
